Community Service Program

The DoorWay

is an interdenominational ministry providing help and promoting healing, hope and purpose to youth and in-crisis individuals within the community by reaching out through prevention, education, crisis intervention and recovery programs without discrimination.

History

In 1981, Joyce Erdner became president of "Together With Youth", an organization dedicated to fighting alcohol and other drug addictions among youth. She worked with St. Francis Hospital and local Judges to design the Adolescent Intervention Program in 1982. The program has been used throughout the United States, as well as in other countries. In 1991, C.T.R. Systems, Inc., generously donated a building to the organization, which then merged with The DoorWay. The Avalon site was provided with the condition that the property be used to help give people a second chance.

Community Service

The Community Service program is a service that The DoorWay provides so that court designated offenders can complete their assigned obligation. It is the offender's responsibility (not their parent's, relative's or friend's) to schedule service times, complete assigned hours within the court determined period and to adhere to the rules. It is not The DoorWay's responsibility to notify offenders when they fail to schedule or complete hours in a timely fashion. Anyone failing to schedule, complete their hours or follow the rules will be terminated and returned to the court, probation officer or case worker which assigned the work.
